A Contemporary Approach to Education: KeyCode

Key Competences for Young Europeans: Education to Empathy and Interculturality

Agenda

In 2015, the EU Ministers of education adopted the Paris Declaration, which explains that one of “the major challenge we face in safeguarding our pluralistic societies [is] to impart common fundamental values”. They agreed on a common effort to teach pupils to become active citizens promoting democratic values and fundamental rights. However, the values of the European Union cannot be taught with coercive and top-down methodologies, but through empathic educational instruments. Empathy is a vital concept to reach the goals of the Paris Declaration and lies at the core of the Erasmus+ programme Keycode.
